

Research Experience for Undergraduates

REU site: Interdisciplinary Research Experience in Environmental Science and Engineering

Undergraduates from anywhere in the US with a desire for a career in a STEM field related to characterizing or solving environmental issues are encouraged to apply for this multidisciplinary 10 week research program at Montana Tech in beautiful Butte, MT. Students can gain real world experience in cutting edge research in a broad range of environmentally related projects

May 29th to August 4th 2023

Program benefits:

- $6000 summer stipend
- Housing and meals
- Transportation costs
- Field trips to unique locations
- Professional development in laboratory skills and safety, presenting, writing and other foundational science skills
- A pathway to a career in an environmental field application deadline February 15th

For more information, and to apply, visit <https://www.mtech.edu/research/reu/>